

For Local Beacon February 2024 issue

By Pauline Paterson.

Brecon u3a are offering a diverse and interesting programme for February. Something for everyone! Brecon u3a gives an opportunity to meet like-minded people with similar interests at the beautiful canal-side Theatr Brycheiniog; learn new things and share your skills, the chance to go on varied trips organised by The Travel Desk, or join the Music Appreciation group, Scrabble or Mahjong group and lots more.

The morning sessions include talks on 'So you think the Suffragettes got Women the Vote?' a provocative talk by Deanna Leboff; 'The Science of Weed', a talk about cannabis given by Aidan Seeley on a return visit to Brecon u3a; 'The Story of St. Fagan's Museum, past, present and future', presented by Gillian Evans; and a talk by Hugh Tomas called 'Changes and Chances'; this is a talk about two composers, accompanied by some of their music.

The afternoons in February are taken up by our special interest groups (SIGS). Just to list a few they include: Architecture and Landscape, Gardening, Archaeology, Philosophy, Scrabble, Earth Science, Poetry, Family History, Play Reading, Creative Writing and Bookshelf. Further details can be found on our website Brecon.u3a.site.uk

Why not give us a try? Brecon u3a is open to anyone who is not in full time employment. You can attend for a couple of weeks to see how you like it before joining as a full-time member. The cost would be £2 for the day which would cover three sessions, and Theatr Brycheiniog's lovely canal-side facilities. If you join, membership is £35 for the year.
